Bengaluru is one of India's most magnetic cities located in the southern part of the country. The capital of the State of Karnataka, Bengaluru is India's tech and innovation hub which is affirmed by the number of Fortune 500 companies present as well as the thriving start-up scene that the city is proud of.

The city, with its proximity to the coffee-growing regions of Chikmagalur, Hassan and Coorg, is the heartbeat of the Indian Coffee industry- from retail to artisanal cafes, to café chains to allied products.

WELCOME TO COFFEES OF INDIA

In 1600 AD, the mythical holy saint Baba Budan planted "Seven seeds" of "Mocha" in the courtyard of his monastery on "Baba Budan Giris" in Karnataka. This was the humble beginning of the narrative of Indian coffee. The plants progressively spread as backyard plantings for quite a while after remaining as a simple garden curiosity.

During the 18th century, commercial coffee plantations were established as a result of British entrepreneurs being able to conquer the hostile terrain of south India.

Since then, the Indian coffee industry has advanced quickly and established itself as a distinctive player on the global coffee map. In ecologically vulnerable areas of the Western and Eastern Ghats, India's coffee is cultivated in dense natural shade. These areas are also considered as one of the top 25 hotspots for biodiversity. Coffee plays a key role in maintaining the region's distinctive biodiversity and is also responsible for the socioeconomic growth in such remote, hilly areas.
